Sir/Madam: I own 100 shares of Microsoft stock. I urge support for the settlement agreed to by the US, many states and Microsoft. Based on the facts reported in the newspapers and my own non-professional purchase and usage of computers it appears that the terms of the settlement appropriately address the concerns expressed in the verdicts. As a non-expert computer user the Microsoft products make it easier for me and the prices appear comparable to other products. Also, given the speed with which technology changes, we would be better served if Microsoft's competitors (I own small amounts of some of them as well) would work together and come up with truly competitive products without undue interference from the courts. Further, the remaining states and Microsoft should in due course be encouraged to settle the remaining part of the case. Thank you for your consideration.
